

RVM Architecture Insider
July 2014
Let's Talk About Relationships

RVM Architecture Insider

July 2014

Old World Craftsmanship,
New Age Technology

State Lic. #87654321

Let's Talk About Relationships

Join Our Mailing List

[Like us on Facebook !\[\]\(003082e50e3009141f59bd5df831749f_img.jpg\)](#)

[View our profile on Linked !\[\]\(17413706fd4997a1a4bdf85c6864eee1_img.jpg\)](#)

Visit our website!

It's no secret in the commercial construction field that relationships between contractors and architects can be, well, interesting. If you have been in business for any amount of time you have likely done business with a few contractors that seem to delight in making your work life that much more difficult. At RVM Construction that is assuredly not the case. As part of your team, or your firm as one of our consultants on a project we are spearheading, our goal is to promote smooth and open communication through all phases of the construction.

Disagreements cost time and money, here's some of the ways we stay on the same page with you:

- Written scope of services
- Open communication with prompt replies
- Mutual respect
- Clear definition of roles and responsibilities
- Sensible deadlines
- Discussions before change orders
- Scheduled site meetings

RVM Architecture Insider
July 2014
Let's Talk About Relationships

Please visit our website for a detailed description of our proprietary process:

Commerical Services

We would love to work with you on your office construction projects, please call today for a complimentary conversation on how RVM can partner with your company to bring your commercial clients the facilities they need!

Ron VanderMooren
RVM Construction
Owner and CEO

(714) 632-9420 ext. 224

From Concept to Completion